

DOCTOR HELD
FOR JANUARY
COURT SESSION

Dr. Robert S. Lefever, York street physician, was held for January court by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on charges of administering a drug to commit a felony and with criminal assault, following a hearing Friday afternoon at which the prosecutrix, Mrs. Rita Dryer, Chambersburg street, was the only witness called. Bail of $500 on the drug charge and $2,000 on the assault charge was continued.

Richard A. Brown, of the law firm of Swope, Brown and Swope, entered a plea of "not guilty" to both charges on behalf of Dr. Lefever, and the Commonwealth, represented by District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., called Mrs. Dryer to testify.

Mrs. Dryer testified that she had attended the movies at the Majestic theatre the night of November 21 and walked up Carlisle street to the square, where she saw Dr. Lefever. She said he spoke to her, and told her he had some vitamins which had just come in and if she would come to his office he would give them to her. She was unable to place the time definitely.

Tells Of Headache

She said she went to her room to leave some books she had purchased and to comb her hair before going to the doctor's office.

"He was standing in the doorway of his office," she testified, "I went in and sat down in front of his desk. He weighed me, and said I was awful thin. I said I had a slight headache, but that it was probably from going to the movies. He said he would get me something for my headache."

Mrs. Dryer testified that the doctor returned with a pill in a glass of water. She said she drank it after he had stirred it and the pill had dissolved, turning the water a "foggy white," and that a few minutes later she began to feel dizzy. "I started getting dizzy," she said. "I don't remember anything until I came to."

Mrs. Dryer testified that she left the doctor's office, went to her room and then to the bus terminal, where she said she planned to take a bus to Providence, R. I.

The Commonwealth rested its case with her testimony, and the defense asked no more questions and no further witnesses were called.

LONGFELLOW IS RETIRED BY RC

Wilbert E. Longfellow, who taught the first first aid instructors' course ever held by the Adams county Red Cross in Gettysburg, will retire December 17 from his position as assistant national director of the American Red Cross Water Safety Service, it has been announced.

Coming here December 2, 1935, he began a course at the court house for the instructors with 36 men as students. On December 9, 1935 he talked to the Lions club here on "Water Safety and Accident Prevention," then went to the court house where he conducted an examination for the students in his course. Leaving the court house he fell and fractured his right wrist and right arm. He returned to Gettysburg on February 17, 1936 to conclude the instructors course.

Longfellow, who served for 33 years as head of the Red Cross water safety program, started his work as a reporter in Rhode Island when he first became convinced that most drownings were needless.

Since he began his work with the Red Cross more than 4,500,000 certificates have been issued for courses completed in his swimming and life saving and the drowning rate in the country has dropped to half despite the fact that now an estimated 80,000,000 go swimming every year.

On Tuesday he was honored at a banquet in Washington. After his retirement he plans to return to Rhode Island where he will become a volunteer worker for the Providence chapter of the Red Cross.

FIRST NATIONAL
STOCKHOLDERS
AT 20TH DINNER

The First National bank of Gettysburg set a new attendance record at the twentieth annual stockholders' dinner Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg with 186 bank officers, shareholders and guests present.

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore was the guest speaker at the dinner at which Edmund W. Thomas, president of the bank and of the Pennsylvania State Bankers' association, served as toastmaster.

President Thomas spoke briefly, pointing out that during 1945 the First National's total deposits increased by 30 per cent over the preceding year. Figures for 1946 are yet incomplete, he pointed out. He referred briefly to the growth in the demand for local loans experienced by the local banking house and said that an important part of that increase has been in GI and real estate loans.

Mayor McKeldin gave the group his "philosophy of life" summed up in his "Five Nations" speech in which he presented "combination, determination, resignation, imagination and coronation" as holding the keys to a useful and happy life.

President Thomas climaxed the introduction of bank officials and their guests by presenting Vice President J. Elmer Musselman who has served for 62 years with the First National.

Other guests introduced included: Franklin M. Thomas, Hagerstown, president of the Central Chemical company; J. C. Shank, J. I. Burgoon, Samuel G. Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Durbowar, Mrs. Edgar L. Deardorff, Mrs. Burgoon, Mrs. Dwight F. Putman, First Vice President M. C. Jones, Mrs. R. W. Livingston, Mr. Deardorff, Mrs. E. W. Thomas, Mr. Livingston, Mrs. Jones, Attorney and Mrs. Franklin R. Bigham and Major Herbert Long, vice president of the Fidelity Trust company of Baltimore.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Dr. Putman. Music during the evening was provided by Professor Richard B. Shade at the piano.

Mueller; the senior choir will sing "In Bethlehem's Manger Lowly" by Clarence Dickinson, with solos by Miss Sara Jane Sheffer, Reginald Dunkinson and Donald Bollinger. The combined choirs will offer the anthem "Away in a Manger" by Orvis Ross.

Preceding the White Gift service on Sunday evening, at 6:45 o'clock, Professor Shade will present a fifteen minute organ recital. The numbers to be played include: "Carol Prelude" by Roland Diggie; "A Christmas Lullaby" by W. R. Voris; "The March of the Wise Men" by Harvey B. Gaul; and "The Shepherds in the Fields" by Otto Mallinger.

The Third Sunday in advent will be observed at the 10:30 o'clock service Sunday morning. Doctor Gresh will speak on the theme "Man, Who Art Thou?" The anthem, "Holy Father, Hear My Cry" by Lucien G. Chaffin, will be rendered by the junior high school choir.

FOR CHRISTMAS

Children in the Adams county schools have already turned in more than 1,100 Christmas toys, favors and gifts to be distributed to such places as the Elizabethtown Children's hospital, Paradise Protectory, Hoffman's orphanage, veteran's hospitals and the county home, Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, Adams County Junior Red Cross secretary announced today.

At the same time she urged those schools which have not yet turned in their toys to send the articles to the county Red Cross office prior to December 16.

The articles vary from Christmas sleds made of match boxes filled with candy, toys or marbles through stuffed toys, dolls, comic books, table favors and writing cases to three large wooden toys in the form of animals and complete with a wheeled base that were made by Ronald Hoke, an Abbottstown school student.

Variety of Gifts

One hundred red sleds, each bearing a candy stick, are slated for a veterans' hospital as are 50 candles made of paper and cardboard and which will be filled with candy. These articles were made by students in St. Joseph's academy, McSherrystown.

Twenty writing cases made by students at Gettysburg high school are also for the veterans' hospitals.

Forty-five Christmas stockings which contain gifts of such things as pipe cleaners and candy are scheduled to go to the men at the county home and 45 needle cases, made in the form of gloves, are listed for Christmas delivery to the women of the county home.

BINNING SERVES
AT SCENE OF RR
WRECK; 18 DEAD

Charles Binning, a former resident of Gettysburg and nephew of Mrs. George Thrush, Springs avenue, is assistant supervisor of tracks for the Pennsylvania railroad at Mansfield, Ohio, where 18 were killed in a train wreck early Friday morning.

Mr. Binning, who served as a lieutenant in the navy, returned to the railroad following his discharge and was recently transferred from Columbus, Ohio, and elevated to his present position.

Mansfield, O., Dec. 14 (P)—Results of a 12-hour search in the wreckage of three trains near here set the death toll today at 18—four crewmen and 14 soldiers, mostly teenagers headed home for a Christmas leave before shipment to Japan.

The injured list totaled 50, also mostly soldiers, four of them in critical condition here. Eighteen others were transferred to the Fort Hayes hospital in Columbus last night, eight by litter. Some were treated for minor injuries near the wreck scene.

One coach of the Pennsylvania railroad's "Golden Triangle," Pittsburgh-Chicago flyer which plowed into two eastbound freight trains, carried 62 soldiers who left Fort Dix, N. J., Thursday enroute to the army's port of embarkation at Camp Stoneman, Pittsburgh, Calif., with seven days delay enroute at the moment, Maj. Cornelius T. Morris of Fort Dix said last night.

Remove Bodies

The "Golden Triangle" piled up on two eastbound freight trains that had crashed a few seconds earlier 12 m. yesterday.

Twelve hours later, rescue crews completed their search of the twisted steel cars for bodies, freeing many of the dead and injured with acetylene torches.

Engineer Louis Petoskey, 55, of Toledo, whose freight rammed another freight train which had stopped because of a broken air hose, denied last night a statement by a Pennsylvania spokesman in Pittsburgh that he failed to heed a signal to slow down.

The "Golden Triangle," running at about 70 miles an hour, struck the freight wreckage a few seconds after the pile-up which blocked the passenger train's westbound track.

Will Tour Europe
For Several Weeks

William A. Baddorf will be in charge of the Saturday night rallies of the Rural Youth group during Rev. Mr. Lee's absence.

DRIVER CHARGED

A ten-day notice will be mailed by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder to Robert E. Schultz, 230 West Middle street, on a charge of reckless driving, preferred by borough police. Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster charged Schultz with reckless driving in Center Square at 12:45 a. m. today.

1,000 Moose, Ladies
At Dance, Floor Show

Over 1,000 Moose and their ladies attended the program held Friday night at the Moose home on York street when a floor show was presented in connection with the regular Friday night dance.

Because of the apparent success of the program which included a master of ceremonies, contortionist, tap dancer and singer, the entertainment committee announced plans to hold a similar floor show next Friday night with performances at 9 and 10:30 o'clock.

DAIRYMEN MAY USE ARTIFICIAL BREEDING HERE

Adams county's farmers may turn to artificial breeding to better their dairy herds without increasing too greatly their costs.

That was indicated Friday evening following a meeting at the court house when more than 100 dairy herd owners discussed with R. H. Olmstead, State College extension dairy specialist, the possibility of arranging for an artificial breeding association in the county.

To secure such an association the farmers interested will have to secure membership of farmers whose combined herds will total between 1,800 and 2,000 cows. With nearly 18,000 head of cattle in the county those interested saw little reason Friday night why they could not secure the cooperation of one-tenth of the county's dairy herds in order to start the program.

Name Community Leaders

To determine the interest of the county farmers in the idea and to explain to those not at the meeting the details of the proposal, the farmers selected as community leaders 39 men whose job it will be to visit their neighbors and explain the program.

FOE OFFICIAL
CITES LODGE'S
SOCIAL RECORD

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, with a membership of 1,250,000, is charting a course for worthwhile social legislation just as it successfully pioneered for the national social security act, Raymond P. McElroy, Providence, R. I., grand worthy vice president of the Eagles, declared in an address here Friday night to members of Gettysburg Aerie No. 1562, in the Eagles home on Chambersburg street.

"The Eagles have a right to be proud of the services they have given to the poor of the community and the nation; for the self-sacrificing services they have rendered in earthquakes, mine disasters, floods and a thousand emergencies," Mr. McElroy said.

Millions Benefit

"It is because of the efforts of Eagles that 4,000,000 persons in the United States are now receiving old age benefits and 780,000 children are receiving orphan benefits," the speaker continued. "We glory in the record of the past but if we are to continue to be a progressive organization, we must not look backward, but must accept our challenge in this hour of need."

"This is a critical time in the history of the nation and of our fraternity," Mr. McElroy continued. "Hostilities have ceased, yet some nations today are looking forward to a third World War. Did you ever stop to think of the force for good of 1,250,000 Eagles, raising their voices and demanding a just and lasting peace? Their voices against bigotry and racial hatred? A membership which will take off its coats to combat delinquency?"

Mr. McElroy told the close to 200 Eagles present Friday night that "Never before has there been a greater demand for your service and loyalty."

Lists Social Objectives

Mr. McElroy said that the order is vitally interested in legislation to extend the social security act so that all workers not now benefited and the self-employed are included in the system. The order, he said, has gone on record for state unemployment insurance disability benefits and has included youth guidance, child health, aid for veterans, aid for the physically handicapped and stimulation of employment in the fields of public service in which the order is interested.

He paid tribute to the order's memorial foundation, which was created as a "living memorial," he said, to honor the 152,757 Eagles who served their country in World War II and the 3,161 who made the supreme sacrifice. The foundation fund will be used to educate the children of Eagles who died in service, and for other worthy causes. Established by donations from Eagles aeries and individual Eagles, this fund now totals more than $2,000,000, he said.

The speaker was introduced by David McCullough, president of the Gettysburg Aerie. A buffet lunch was served after the meeting. Mr. McElroy was taken on a tour of the battlefield during the afternoon.

Here And There
News Collected At Random

The first significant observance of the anniversary of Lincoln's visit to Gettysburg, his dedication of the National Cemetery with his immortal Gettysburg Address held last November 19 is a great step toward national recognition of this great date.

If Gettysburg devotes a little time and effort and money to properly observing this anniversary each year it will soon become one of the most historic occasions of the year . . . and of course the eyes of the nation and the world will be focused on this historic community.

Editors, columnists, radio commentators and others recognized the observance here this year with much favorable comment and news space. We have reported a number of these comments. Just recently has come the recognition given the exercise by the Chicago Tribune columnist in the popular feature "A Line O' Type or Two". Under the heading "Gettysburg Glimpses" this columnist reports:

"Since today is the anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, we have been refreshing our memory of the environment in which these 366 immortal words were delivered. It is, we have no doubt, the most richly marked battlefield in the world, and in its natural endowment of views, perhaps the most beautiful. The summer afternoon we spent there, in weather much like that of the first three days in July, 1863, was all too short and we have hoped ever since for another pilgrimage.

"The cemetery that Lincoln dedicated four and a half months after the battle is not cluttered with monuments like the rest of the field. It is an enclosed

Adams county eventually may have available $1,544,000 for school building construction purposes, a survey completed by the county board of school directors disclosed today.

Prepared for Paul H. Wueller, executive director of the Pennsylvania School commission, the results of the findings in Adams county are being used for study by the commission, along with similar surveys in other sections of the state, to determine whether the state will back a proposal that the state pay $6,000 to each school board when it closes a school rather than the $200 given each year indefinitely under the present act whenever a board closes a school.

The survey was made to determine whether, if the districts planned to close their one- and two-room schools and replace them with larger schools, sufficient funds would be on hand for the larger structures.

Dr. Robert A. Bream, assistant county superintendent of schools, said today that the survey showed that the proposed plan of giving $6,000 outright for each closed school would work out "exceedingly well" for Adams county. In fact, he added, all but two of the county's districts would be able to supply modern school facilities replacing the present structures under the proposed plan.

York Springs is one of the districts which would not stand to benefit directly to any great extent by the proposed $6,000 cash payment for school closings, but it will benefit from other districts nearby which are planning to close schools and make York Springs a school center if the study currently being conducted there shows the idea to be feasible.

Huntington and Latimore townships already have formed a joint school board with York Springs to investigate the possibility of creating a school setup covering the three districts, the county office revealed today. The three districts would be able to borrow $60,000 and would receive $100,000 for closed schools under the proposed change in the law, according to the survey. Such an amount should provide the elementary facilities needed for the area, the county board survey concludes.

The survey was based on enrollment of students in the various districts, the condition of buildings in the districts, the borrowing capacity for each district, the amount locally available for building purposes, and geographic features such as road conditions, natural shopping centers, where the youngsters go to school at present, school bus routes and similar circumstances.

Based on the amount the districts might legitimately borrow and the amount that would come to the districts if the proposed $6,000 state payment for closed schools becomes a law the figures appear to be, according to the survey:

Cumberland and Freedom townships, borrowing capacity, $46,000, state payment $62,000, which the county board believes would be sufficient for the two, if they decide to combine, to construct their own center or to join with Gettysburg.

Mt. Pleasant and Mt. Joy townships would have a borrowing capacity of $80,000 and would get $100,000 from the state which again would be enough for those two districts to form a large elementary school center.

Straban township alone would have a borrowing capacity of $48,000 and would get $54,000 from the state, enough to build an elementary center.

Fairfield, Hamiltonban, Liberty and Highland townships would be able to borrow $75,000 and would get $115,000 from the state for closed schools which should be adequate for elementary

PAULEY POINTS TO USSR HAND IN CHINESE ROW

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

W. Pauley's report that Russia had "long-range strategic reasons" for stripping Manchuria of its industry, seems to imply that Moscow has been contributing to the continuance of unsettled conditions in China to give the Communists there a better opportunity.

It was obvious immediately after the end of the Japanese war that, if the Red Army was not lending direct aid to the Chinese Communists, it at least was making it easy for them to arm themselves with former enemy material.

The United States, well aware that the Chiang Kai-shek regime was not all that it seemed, nevertheless has been striving to arrange a truce between it and the Communists with the idea that, once both were participating, a central government of some balance could be established as a step toward compromise settlement of some of China's major woes.

Pauley's Points

It was not considered unnatural that the Russians should let the Chinese Communists fill the vacuum created by the defeat of the Japanese and their own subsequent retirement. And while there was unhappiness among the allies that the Soviet should take as "war booty" the machinery which they were known to need, that, too, was in line with Russian policy elsewhere. So would be a China too weak to represent a threat to Russia's border and her Mongolian interests.

But now Pauley, President Truman's reparations investigator, points up the situation in a different light.

"The chaos caused (in Manchuria) by the Soviets," his report says, "has produced a condition of instability both politically and economically which will take a long time to correct. It left a populace cold, hungry and full of unrest."

Those are conditions under which the world Communists do their best work. It means as much to them in preparing for their ultimate harvest as do plowing and harrowing to the farmer.

Two Different Things

With its industrial plants and natural resources, Pauley points out, Manchuria would have been the logical place to begin the rehabilitation of China. That was undoubtedly in the minds of Roosevelt and Churchill at Cairo when they promised Chiang, long before the defeat of Japan was in sight, that Manchuria would be returned to China. The area represented the nucleus of a new economic order without which all of China's plans for stable government would be terribly handicapped.

This is the objective which General Marshall has been trying to get both the Kuomintang and the Communists to join in working toward a stable China has been for several years the hope of those who seek long-term peace in the Orient. She is the logical "monitor" of Asia.

But a stable China and a China in which the Communists can expand their sphere of control are two different things. Pauley's report does everything but say outright that the Russians are well aware of this.

MOUNT ALUMNI TO HELP GRADS

The National Alumni association of Mount St. Mary's college has inaugurated a new service for the graduates of the "Mount," a placement bureau. Its purpose is to aid Mountaineers in arranging for conferences with prospective members in business and industrial fields.

The Rev. John F. Cogan, professor of psychology, has been named the faculty director of the newly-organized bureau, and John E. Connor, Washington, D. C. has been appointed chairman of the bureau's national committee. The latter group plans to prepare a mailing list, telling of the college, of the men graduating and who wish to become associated with business or industry. Chapters are located in key cities of areas where the Mount alumni are greatest.

An opportunity for the former graduates of the Mount to renew old acquaintances will be presented on December 30 when the first post-war Loyalty Night dinner will be held in various cities. This information was received by Dr. John J. Dillon, professor of English and the chapter president, from Thomas B. Schmidt, Harrisburg, president of the National Alumni association of Mount St. Mary's.

Invitations will be sent to all chapter members informing them of the time, place and local speaker, etc. From Washington, a nationally known speaker will address all of the Loyalty Night dinners on a telephone loud speaker system. Fourteen key areas from the east coast to the mid-west will be covered.

park, masked by trees, with the national monument as an impressive centerpiece. Around this lofty memorial, in concentric circles, the Union dead are buried under white stone crosses.

The article closes with a poem "For Dedication Day" by Thomas Curtis Clark, reading as follows:

"These quiet fields, where play the mockingbirds;
This lavish orchard, boon to days of peace;
These happy valleys—was it here the words
Of Lincoln bade the wars at last to cease?
And was it here the tides of battle rolled.
Those ghastly days of devastating death,
While countless millions; worn with warfare old,
Endured and prayed, and held their fearful breath?
O, Lincoln, Master, speak to us again;
Lift up our hearts, subdue our restless souls;
Here once again, on this embattled plain,
Call us to peace, speed us to worthy goals,
Bind up the brokenhearted, bid war die
In every heart, and under every sky."

John D. Lippy, Jr., and Dr. J. Walter Colman who headed the local committee for the observance and who made possible the success of the exercise deserve more than passing comment for their efforts. Next year's program will no doubt be more national in scope and they deserve the support of the entire community toward making this annual program one of nation-wide significance.

MAROONS LOSE FIRST TILT TO YORK HI. 47-31

Collapsing in the last 10 minutes of play after three thrilling and hotly contested quarters, the Gettysburg high cagers were handed their initial defeat of the season here Friday evening by York high 47-31.

The lead changed hands no less than 10 times during the first three rounds before Coach Forney's Maroons started to weaken in the late minutes of the third period. York held the locals scoreless for the final 10 minutes of play while ramming 18 points through the cords.

Using their height to advantage, the White Roses managed to gain possession of the ball consistently off the back boards which proved fatal to Gettysburg.

York scored on the first play of the game when Barnes heaved a "peep." A pair of fouls by Hess tied it up and a goal and foul by McCarter sent the visitors out in front again. Fred Rodgers landed the first of two free throws and, after missing the second, the Maroons tallied when Hess tapped the ball through. A one-handed toss by Cole gave Gettysburg its first lead. McCarter's foul and Green's goal sent York ahead 8-7. McCarter looped a close shot which was followed by a foul by Eisenhart. Fair tied the count with a long toss but York took a 12-10 lead at the quarter when Hamme tallied.

See-Saw Contest

The nip and tuck play continued in the second period. A goal by Eisenhart and pair of fouls by Cole put the Maroons in front early in the quarter. Hamme netted a foul and then Eisenhart landed a long toss to put the score at 16-13. Johnson made good on a free toss and Hess rammed through a short toss which put the Forney-men in front 18-14. Successive goals by Hamme, Green and Johnson enabled York to lead 20-18 at half time.

Again Gettysburg went to the front in the third period on goals by Cole and Fair, but York came right back on shots by Barnes and McCarter. Cole converted two fouls to make the count 24-24. Green looped a foul for the visitors but the Maroons bounced back on two fouls and a goal by Rodgers. McCarter and Barnes sent York ahead 29-28 with twin pointers. Eisenhart tied the score with a free toss and Fair's one-hander put the Maroons in front 31-29 with but two minutes of play remaining in the quarter. McCarter tallied twice before the quarter end to allow York to lead 33-31.

The Maroons fell completely apart from that point on and could not score again. Meanwhile York landed point after point to win going away. Substitutes from both benches poured on the floor freely in the waning minutes.

Scrubs Trounced

Again in the preliminary game it was a matter of too much height which permitted the smooth looking York scrubs to score a one-sided 50-21 victory.

Next Tuesday the Maroons meet Harrisburg Catholic, conquerors of William Penn Friday evening, on the local floor.

Barons' Win Streak On Line Tonight

(By The Associated Press)
The Cleveland Barons will put the longest winning streak of the American Hockey league season—eight games—on the line tonight when they play host to the Indianapolis Caps in one of the circuit's five games.

Leading the western division by seven points, the Barons started their string of victories November 20 by trouncing the Philadelphia Rockers, 7-2.

Since then the Barons have downed St. Louis and Pittsburgh twice, Indianapolis, Hershey and New Haven once, rolling up 40 goals and allowing only 18 to be scored against them.

Pittsburgh's runner-up Hornets will tangle with the eastern division's pace-setting Hershey Bears at Philadelphia, New Haven at Springfield and Buffalo at St. Louis in the other games.

PICK BEARS TO WIN PRO TITLE

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—George Helas brought his Chicago Bears here today to tangle with the New York Giants tomorrow for the National Football league championship, and the way the neighborhood betting boys figure it, the Bears should win easier than falling down.

They climbed off a morning train just about one time the better betting shoppes were taking down their shutters and opening up for the day. And when they did, it was discovered the gambling gentlemen had overhauled their odds overnight and now have the Bears a 10-point favorite over the Giants to win their fifth title since the play-for-pay pigskinners first decided back in 1933 to bring East and West together in a post-season championship scramble.

Inasmuch as the Giants raised lumps on the cubs the one time they got together this season, it was difficult to figure out how this betting price was reached.

It still looked like a 50,000 crowd and a record $185,000 gate for tomorrow.

It will be the fourth time the Bears and the Giants have rattled it out for the championship. The Bears won in 1933 and 1941, and the New Yorkers won in 1934.

FUSARI BEATS TAYLOR IN 7TH

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Ever since Charley Fusari came charging out of New Jersey piling up a string of wins as long as a commuter's train, the wise-boys have been pool-pooling his record with the old one about "who'd he ever fight."

There was a loud silence from these viewers—with alarm today as a result of Charley's first stop on the big time. The slim swarthy from Irvington brought his all-conquering record into Madison Square garden last night and dusted off Chunky Chuck Taylor, an acknowledged fair country workman out of the Pennsylvania coal regions in seven rounds, thereby showing there was nothing phony in his unbeaten run.

This was the 47th straight victory the blond Sicilian-born 21-year-old had chalked up since he decided punching for pay was probably an easier way to make a living than taking over the milk route from his father.

And with the win, he moved himself well up front and center among the car-scrammers who'll be looking for a shot at the winner of next week's welterweight title brawl between Ray Robinson, the Harlem sugar man, and Tommy Bell of Youngstown, Ohio.

It was a pier six slugging party all the way last night, with Fusari coming off the floor from a third round knockdown as the crowd of 12,008—who chipped in to a $50,746 gate—howled, and beating Taylor all over the premises in the sixth.

He thumped the Coalport pounder so thoroughly, that Taylor was still sitting weary and shaken in his corner when the seventh started, thereby automatically ending the fight. Chuck got a bruised rib out of it too.

TWO FRESHMEN BACKS GAIN AP ALL-PRO TEAM

By FRANK ECK

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Glenn Dobbs of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Orben (Speck) Sanders of the New York Yankees, both members of the All-America Conference, today held the distinction of being the only freshmen to crash the Associated Press 1946 All-Pro team.

Dobbs, Tulsa's 1942 All-America passing wizard, and Sanders, who gained his backfield experience at Texas and two Navy flight schools, were the choice of Associated Press sports writers in every city in which the two new pro stars performed.

Two other conference players, Guard Bill Radovich of the Los Angeles Dons and Tackle Frank (Bruiser) Kinard of the Yankees, were the other conference players to make the All-Pro. Radovich was selected in 1945 when he played for the Detroit Lions in the National Football league, which gained seven places on the All-Pro. Kinard was chosen four previous times while a member of the old Brooklyn Dodgers in the NFL.

Waterfield In Backfield
Joining Dobbs and Sanders in the backfield are Bob Waterfield, brilliant T formation passer from the Los Angeles Rams, and Ted Fritsch, 210-pound fullback with the Green Bay Packers. Waterfield made the team in 1945 as a member of the Cleveland Rams, NFL champions who this year switched their franchise to Los Angeles. Fritsch, playing his fifth season for the Packers, gained the honors for the first time.

All linemen named made previous AP eleven or All-Pro teams selected by the National Football league. The league discontinued selections after 1942 and the NFL by-laws now prohibit the selecting of a team by anyone connected with the circuit. However, few coaches are adverse to naming their best men.

Benton, Poole At Ends
Jim Benton, the end who hauls down aerials thrown by Waterfield, and Jim Poole of the New York Giants, proved by the voting of sports writers and coaches to be the two best flankers in the play-for-play game.

Benton paced both pro loops in catching passes. In the first 12 games the former Arkansas gridman made 56 catches, six for touchdowns. Against the Giants, when Waterfield hit six different receivers in completing 22 out of 29 tosses, Benton grabbed 12. Benton also was chosen in 1945. Poole last made All-Pro in 1939.

3 Rams on Team
The selection of Riley Matheson for one of the guard berths gives the Rams three All-Pro's, the same as in '45 when they played in Cleveland. Matheson has made the team the last three seasons.

Al Wistert, who joins Kinard as a tackle, made the team for the third straight year as a member of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The unanimous choice at center was Clyde (Bulldog) Turner of the Chicago Bears, western division winners in the NFL. Turner made four previous All-Pro eleven and at 240 pounds is the heaviest man on a line that averages 221 pounds.

The All-Pro backfield presents a powerful quartet of yard gainers. Waterfield gained 1,572 yards in 10 games on passing alone. On his first 36 punts he averaged 43.6 yards. His kicking of field goals and extra points enabled him to finish among the league's scoring leaders.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs was reported today to have responded to treatment after suffering a slight relapse. Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Eastern College Athletic Conference—better known as "Asa Bushnell's office"—will make an effort next week to reorganize itself into a real conference with the avowed purpose of tossing its weight around in national athletic affairs. . . . As it stands, the ECAC comprises about 100 schools who hold nearly 500 memberships in the organization. They belong to various leagues and groups which in turn are members of the conference. . . . You can see where the vote of the four-team gymnastic league or the three eye hockey league wouldn't influence colleges or other sections when something comes up like the subsidy and eligibility questions that are expected to cause quite a ruckus at the NCAA convention next month. But a united stand by 100 influential eastern colleges would mean a lot. . . . Incidentally, Bushnell hints that the easterners may have to police their own ranks a bit, but the conference will do it.

Today's Talk

BITTER TALK

There have been writers who have thrived on bitter talk. Ambrose Bierce, brilliant though he was, wrote bitter things, so much so that one biographer named his book "Bitter Bierce." However, he wrote a few of the greatest of American short stories.

Benjamin Franklin once wrote: "Strange! that a Man who has wit enough to write a Satire should have folly enough to publish it." Yet many a writer has turned his talent backwards in this manner.

It was "good talk" that Dr. Samuel Johnson delighted in. And that talk, as taken down by his friend Boswell, has become one of the world's great classics. Bitter talk never does any one good. It only wounds and creates sorrow.

Bitter talk also has a very bad effect pathologically upon the human body. It seeps into the mind and then spreads throughout the body like poison. Usually bitter talk is regretted, but its damage stays behind.

The late Walt Mason once wrote a humorous poem about an ugly man. "Of pale red hair he had a thatch, his eyes were green and didn't match; his nose was pug, his chin was weak, and freckles grew on either cheek, and sorrel whiskers fringed his chop, too thin to ever make a crop." So people, when they looked at him, just stood and yelled. But when they learned that only kindness rested in those eyes and that no bitterness ever was uttered from his lips, they cried: "He is a handsome man!"

No one wants to meet or associate with a bitter talking person. People harbor bitterness and it drags them down, injures their health and divorces their friends. Bitter talk always follows war. It starts them, as well. It is a sad thing to read of the bitter talk of national and world leaders, at a time when all bitterness should be set aside, and a smooth path to endless peace arranged.

Let us be done with bitter talk, and bitterness in the heart. Let us, as the Old Year ends, and the New Year arrives, resolve to enact the words of the immortal Abraham Lincoln: "With malice toward none; with charity for all."

Riding with Russell

by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S. A. E.

The way some drivers change their minds you'd think they were equipped with a convertible top.

Now is the Time

Your car will ride better and have more traction in snow if you keep the gas tank filled. You'll also be less troubled by water from condensation.

Your plan for rotating tires may have to be altered in winter because you will need your best treads for the rear wheels. Blind acceptance of the idea of rotation has caused many a skidding accident.

Because of the corrosive action of some of the salts used to break up ice on city streets in winter it is a good plan to wax all chromium parts of the car heavily.

Sometimes We Wonder

Some things are still a bit strange in the motor scene. Why, for instance, do motorists think that slowing the engine will charge the battery? Why do they check the oil level without first making sure that the car is on level ground? Why do so many people capitalize Sealed Beam headlights? Why does almost everyone call premium gasoline high-test gas when it is merely regular gasoline with a high octane rating? High test gas would be fuel with a higher than normal volatility rating. What makes officials think that a speed of fifty is safe while one a bit in excess of this is dangerous? Why do so few people realize that a blowout at 40 or 45 miles per hour may be more dangerous than one at much higher speeds?

Why Those Backfires?

I am indebted to H. B. C. for bringing up the timely subject of how an engine actually produces a backfire into the carburetor and under through the air intake. He understands that a lean mixture can cause this but fails to see how there can be any combustion in the intake system when there is no ignition or heat there. Well, it's really quite simple when we get the facts.

A weak mixture causes very slow combustion. Thus when the intake valve of one of the cylinders opens up for a new charge of gas the old gas in that cylinder is still burning. It fires the incoming gas and you get a "pop" in the carburetor. Timing also has a lot to do with this. Thus a very late combustion will hang over until the next intake cycle. Sometimes sparks will occur during an intake stroke, due, in turn, to premature ignition. Then we have the valves to consider. Through stickiness one of the intake valves may be partially open during a power stroke.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Some carburetors have what is known as balancing for the purpose of preventing a clogged air cleaner from forcing a greatly enriched mixture. This is done by running a tube from the bowl breather hole intake to the carburetor throat. Pressure on the gas in the bowl is then in balance with that in the carburetor throat so no extra fuel is forced through the jets when the clogged air cleaner acts as a restriction on the air supply. The plan is not perfect, by any means, so the wise step is to keep the cleaner clean. Where there is no such provision against mixture enrichment in the carburetor itself overfilling the air bath type of filter is just like partially closing the choke."

Back Again—And Welcome

Built-in defrosters may seem to be the last word in relief from an ice covered windshield, but the defroster fan that attaches to the steering post is back again in the accessory picture to remind us that it has a lot to offer. Somehow it forces the car heater's warmth directly against the glass in such a way as to be much more efficient than it seems. However, its efficiency is partly dependent upon the driver's readiness to adjust the heater's shields so that a maximum amount of hot air will be fed to the fan's blades. In the case of an under-seat heater one driver made the fan ineffective because his overcoat prevented maximum heat from blowing into the driving compartment.

Less Gear Jumping

Having trouble keeping the gears in mesh when going downhill? This may indicate weakness of the shift lock (the detent) but it probably is aggravated by too much movement of the engine in its flexible mountings. Moreover such movement is greater at certain car speeds. In driving a car with such an affliction I have found it well to change speed when I find that the gears are slipping back to neutral. It is also well to declutch and re-engage the gears several times during the descent.

Keep These In Mind

A winter grease job will be more effective if done on a mild day when the lube can flow more freely. Remember, too, that the car should be given a workout on the road after a greasing. A rough road is preferred for this.

If your car is equipped with the earlier sealed beam headlights and they seem to be a bit dim, stop looking for poor connections. The lights are dim because they are old. The newer lamps are designed so as not to grow dim with age.

Winter is the most important season for an ignition check-up especially the breaker points which can contribute generously to starting delay if they are dirty or blackened.

Confidence Is Catching

In a number of recent letters which have come to my desk I note a strong sense of frustration, and I don't like it. There never was any car ailment that couldn't be cured, and the mere fact of difficulty in diagnosis or cure should be no reason for any motorist to assume that the case is hopeless. Discussing this

PROPOSE ONLY FULL TEACHERS FOR COACHES

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Dec. 14 (AP)—A return to the pre-war plan of having full-time teachers fill all coaching roles was under consideration today by district committees of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association.

Nine amendments to the constitution were being voted upon at district meetings, with the final tabulation taking place at the annual meeting of the organization here on December 27. One amendment dealt with the coaching situation.

Edmund Wicht, PIAA executive secretary, said the amendment, if approved, provided that "only those employees in a full-time teaching capacity by a school district shall be eligible to coach, direct or assist in coaching athletic teams of member schools of the PIAA."

Wicht said another amendment would increase dues for all PIAA members, and two of the amendments have to do with enlarging the membership of the state board of control.

Three other amendments were submitted with the purpose of helping control junior high school sports, or to rectify what appears to be injustices to some athletes in junior high grades, explained Wicht.

The other proposals would permit adoption of rules for baseball and rifle competition.

PARTY ADOPTS RICE PLATFORM

Harrisburg, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Democratic minority in the 1947 legislature planned today to press for laws barring the "spending of shush funds in Pennsylvania elections."

State Sen. John H. Dent of Westmoreland county and Rep. Hiram G. Andres of Cambria county announced the lawmakers' decision yesterday after they were re-elected minority floor leaders of the Senate and State House respectively at a joint caucus here.

Dent and Andres asserted in a joint statement the Republican party organizations "collected $3,095,912" for use in the recent election campaign and added: "When it is considered that two of the most important offices in the state were voted upon, those of governor and U.S. senator, it must arouse the indignation of the people of the state."

"In our opinion, the way to stop this lavish expenditure of money is to put teeth in the corrupt practices act."

The Democratic legislators — 16 senators and 38 house members — previously named John S. Rice, of Gettysburg, defeated gubernatorial nominee, chairman of a new joint caucus committee and announced the party program in the General Assembly will be Rice's campaign platform.

Andrews said the party will cooperate with Governor-elect James H. Duff on promises both he and Rice made.

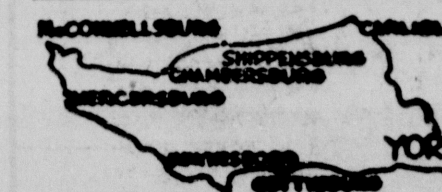

Pa. Delegation Backs Halleck

Harrisburg, Dec. 14 (AP)—Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Indiana) received the support of Pennsylvania's powerful Republican delegation in Congress today for election as majority floor leader in Congress.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson, of Huntingdon, who announced Halleck's unanimous choice by the 28-member delegation, said the Indiana was endorsed because "he is not tied with any of the probable presidential candidates" of the party for 1948.

In an announced caucus here yesterday, the delegation also unanimously recommended the election of Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts as speaker and the selection of John Andrews, also of Massachusetts, for the key post of clerk of the New Congress. Andrews was a House minority employee.

CASH FOR CURIOSITY

Laguna Beach, Calif., (AP)—Charles G. Branham is $50 richer because he's inquisitive. Standing in a bank line, he watched a dozen customers ahead of him kick a soiled envelope. Branham finally picked it up, found $400 inside.

He turned it over to the bank manager. The anxious loser, returning later, gratefully left the $50 reward.

senses this. He does better work when he knows he has the customer's confidence.

A Matter Of Compression.

Why a battery so often will have enough pep to crank the engine yet not enough juice to fire the mixture appears to puzzle a lot of motorists these cold days. Yet there is no mystery to it at all. Unless the cranking speed is up to normal the mixture won't fire. It isn't a question of the spark being weak but of the mixture not being properly compressed. Very light motor oil will always help boost cranking speed when the battery is low.

Q. Is it true that keeping in high gear when going around corners will wear the universal joints? And how about starting the engine by letting up the clutch pedal when the car is in gear coasting down a slight grade? J. M. M.

A. If the engine skips or falters when going around a corner slowly the universals are likely to be unnecessarily shocked. Better coast around the corner, accelerate the engine a little and gently engage the clutch. Starting the engine downhill isn't recommended as a habit. Save it for an emergency when the battery is weak.

Q. What can be done to remove an old muffler easily? I am also having trouble with the old tail pipe. Have used penetrating oil without success. F. S. B.

A. One of the muffler companies has developed a chemical that does an excellent rust busting job. Let me know if your repair man doesn't have it on hand.

Q. I have been told that on my particular type of car it is especially tough on the springs to start and stop suddenly. Why should this be true of my car and not all the rest? Why should my springs be different? The rear are leaf type springs the same as seen on most cars. W. F.

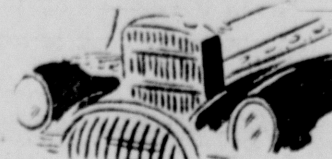

A. The difference is not in the springs but in the so-called "drive." On your car the rear springs take the driving and braking torque. This is known as Hotchkiss drive, as opposed to torque tube drive. The springs thus have more work to do. So you must be more careful.

Q. There's a skip in the motor of my car at low speeds. K. M. P.

A. The engine has a warped exhaust valve.

SANTA and the BOY KING

BY LUCRECE H. HUDGINS

Chapter 8

A Trip on a Turtle

James threw himself on the ground and tried to wet his hand in the spilled liquid. But the dirt had swallowed it and scarcely turned damp. Meanwhile, the rock on which he had placed the bowl continued majestically across the field for it wasn't a rock at all but a turtle, 107 years old.

Never was there such tragic disappointment! The boy King could only bite hard on his lips for even though he had turned into a girl he would not let himself give way to a girl's tears. And while he stood despairing the sun slid behind the mountains and set for the second time since the enchantment began.

"What is to become of me?" he thought. "And what is to become of Mervania?" Thinking of Mervania he felt suddenly that he must return there at once for his ministers must be sick with worry over him and perhaps, after all, they would accept him as king even if he had to wear a dress and bonnet and golden curls all his life.

He ran to the turtle who had caused all the trouble and who was sitting now on the edge of the field. "How can I get to Mervania?" he asked. "Do you know the way?"

The turtle stuck out his head and nodded. "I know the way but it is far."

Then James couldn't help asking accusingly. "Why did you upset my bowl? How could you have done so cruel a thing?"

"Because I object to being taken for a rock," retorted the turtle. But he was quite soothed really, so he said, "However, I have some relatives in Mervania and will be glad to go there and take you. Hop on my back."

"B-but wouldn't it take an awfully long time?"

"Not at all," replied the turtle. "When I travel at night I travel very fast. People see turtles only in the daytime and so they imagine we are pokey. At night we are quite different. Hop on and see."

And James did see! By the light of the moon the turtle swept over the hills, through the fields, and across rivers while the boy King rocked on his hard shell back. When the sun came up the turtle deposited James at the gates of the palace of Mervania.

What excitement there was there! The outer gates stood open and men and women bustled through with an air of immense self-importance. There were butchers carrying pigs on their shoulders; bakers with gigantic cakes; wine merchants with jugs of wine.

"Why they appear not to have missed me at all!" thought James. "Could it be possible no one yet knows I've gone?"

He approached one of the guards. "What is the excitement?" "Why," said the guard. "Don't you know? Lord Potts is preparing for his coronation."

"Coronation! But—the King—I—" "Lord Potts says the King has abdicated and disappeared and he himself is next in line and will be crowned on Christmas eve."

"Let me in! Let me in!" cried James. "I am the King!"

"What's this?" cried the guard, taken by surprise. But James suddenly knew it was quite useless to argue. Turning away he ran up to a lady carrying great bolts of cloth. "Let me help you?" he begged, planning to enter the palace as her assistant.

The lady, a dressmaker come to help with the coronation robes of Lord Potts, was glad enough to fill the child's arms with bolts of silk and velvet until his face was quite hidden from view.

"What a pity it is about the boy King," whispered the dressmaker, anxious to gossip.

"Oh, if only you knew," began James as he ran along behind her. But before he could say another word a strange hand reached from the shrubbery bordering the gates and tripped him. Bolts of silk and velvet went flying, the dressmaker shrieked, and the guard came running.

"I've heard about you!" he shouted. "Imagining yourself to be king! If you don't go away at once I'll arrest you and your head will come off!"
